Four Authors Uncover the Mystery of Suspense June 8, 6:30 p.m., Arthur F. Turner Community Library

(Woodland, CA) – All are welcome to join in conversation with four mystery writers at the Arthur F. Turner Community Library, located at 1212 Merkley Avenue in West Sacramento, on June 8 at 6:30 p.m. Mystery authors, Pat Canterbury, L. F. Crawford, Nan Mahon and Cindy Sample will talk about their new books, the writing process and the reasons they choose ‘murder’ as their choice of genre.

“Although their styles are completely different, these crime solvers work their way through dead bodies to uncover the perpetrators,” said Yolo County Librarian Patty Wong. “Murders take place in vineyards, on cruise ships, in luxury apartments, on dates and in blues clubs. There’s something here for everyone. Please join us!”

All four writers are members of Capitol Crimes, the Sacramento Chapter of Sisters in Crime International. The authors will read from the following works, take questions and have copies of their books for sale.

Every Thursday by Pat Canterbury
Bad Moon Rising by L. F. Crawford
Blind Buddy and Mojo’s Blues Band by Nan Mahon
Dying for a Date by Cindy Sample
