Introduction

To receive Juvenile Justice Crime Prevention Act and Youthful Offender Block Grant funds, Welfare and Institutions Code section 749.22 requires each California county to establish a Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council. These councils are charged with developing a comprehensive, multi-agency plan that identifies the resources and strategies for providing an effective continuum of responses for the prevention, intervention, supervision, treatment, and incarceration of justice involved youth, including strategies to develop and implement locally based or regionally based out-of-home placement options. This Comprehensive Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan is the culmination of that effort in Yolo County.

Yolo County's Comprehensive Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan includes an in-depth look at countywide demographics as well as information about the youth currently served by the Yolo County Probation Department. The Plan provides detail on legislative trends and shifts in best practice which have shaped the juvenile justice system over the past 20+ years and ultimately impacted local juvenile justice statistics and demographics. The Plan then describes the existing juvenile justice continuum of care, which includes programs and services available to address early intervention/diversion from the juvenile justice system, community-based services, juvenile probation services, residential interventions, and secure care services. Finally, the plan identifies gaps in the continuum of care and plans to address those gaps in the form of a Local Action Plan for 2023-2025.

The members of the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council share responsibility for implementing the Plan and will review progress toward identified goals quarterly. Priorities and strategies will be revisited on an annual basis and the Yolo County Comprehensive Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan will be updated as needed.

Role of the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council

The Yolo County Comprehensive Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan fulfills the requirements of Welfare and Institutions Code section 749.22, which requires each county to create a Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council (JJCC) to be eligible to apply for grant funding. It also serves two other important purposes for Yolo County juvenile justice system partners and Yolo County residents:

1. Describes the vision of juvenile justice system partners, youth, parents, and community members for improving the juvenile justice continuum in Yolo County. The plan states what is important to the Yolo County community and creates a platform for improving the system and assuring that adequate resources are available to make the juvenile justice continuum balanced and effective.
2. Articulates actions for realizing that vision. The plan identifies clear steps to take in improving the continuum and who will be responsible for these actions.

Per Welfare and Institutions Code section 749.22, it is the role of Juvenile Justice Coordinating Councils statewide to “...develop a comprehensive, multiagency plan that identifies the resources and strategies for providing an effective continuum of response for the prevention, intervention, supervision, treatment and incarceration of justice-involved youth, including strategies to develop and implement locally based or regionally based out-of-home placement options for youth....” The Yolo County Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council also more broadly serves as an advisory body to the Probation Department on a multitude of juvenile justice-related topics.

Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council Overview

The Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council is a collaborative group responsible for acting in an advisory capacity regarding programs and services for at-risk and justice-involved youth. JJCC meetings occur at a minimum annually and are well attended with broad representation of county, community juvenile programs and community members. The JJCC is also responsible for ensuring programs across disciplines are reviewed regularly and to provide feedback on how to strengthen programs.

It will take a continued collaboration of all agencies to ensure programs are reviewed and assessed for best practices. The JJCC may choose to form subcommittees to develop best practices and measure overall outcomes of the programs being offered.

Federally Recognized Active Tribes

The Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation is a federally recognized tribe located in the Capay Valley area, an agriculturally rich valley in Yolo County, about 45 miles northwest of Sacramento. The Tribe is governed by a Tribal Council and its government is comprised of numerous departments and committees including a fire department, a school, a cultural center, business operations that include a gaming facility, a gas station, an equestrian center, and an olive mill. A closer look at the Native American population in Yolo County indicates there are approximately 3,998 residents (1.8%) who associate their heritage with that of a Native American tribe.⁹ The percentage of the population in Yolo County with Native American tribal heritage has been unchanged at 1.8% from five years prior.

The Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation provides or coordinates services to tribal members in the Child Welfare Services (CWS) system, including parenting, counseling, transportation, and housing assistance. There are several other service providers that CWS refers children and families to for a variety of services. Northern Valley Indian Health provides medical and dental services along with mental health, substance use and parenting services. Northern Valley Indian Health provides services to anyone enrolled in a federally recognized tribe. A new provider since over the last five years is Shingle Springs Tribal TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families). Probation Background

Yolo County Juvenile Detention Facility Trends and 2024 Population Projection

Youth booked and detained in the Yolo County Juvenile Detention Facility (JDF) had steadily declined from 2017 to 2022. The peak number of youth detained in a single day dropped from 30 in 2017 to 9 in 2022. The lowest daily population of detained youth in the JDF dropped from 6 in 2017 to 2 in 2022. The Average Daily Population (ADP) recorded a steep 71% decline between 2017 and 2022.

However, during 2023, the ADP in the JDF steadily increased from 3.32 in January to just over 8.55 in December, resulting in an overall ADP of 5.68 during 2023 as compared to 4.64 in 2022. The first chart below illustrates this upward trend. The reasons for this increase are unknown, but surrounding counties are reporting a similar trend. There are numerous possible contributing factors to the recent increase in the JDF population/arrests among youth. Ongoing research will be conducted to identify specific contributing factors, as well as whether these increases will be consistent over time. The second chart below illustrates the monthly JDF population high water mark in 2023 with double digits in the population being seen in recent months. The make-up of the JDF population in 2023 varies. Some youth are new to the JDF while others are returning. Some are the sole responsible in a criminal event while some of the spikes in the population are due to multiple co-responsibles in a single criminal event. However, there is no trend in the age of youth with the population ranging from 13 to 18 years of age.

Factors considered in projecting the population in the JDF for 2024 center around Juvenile Justice Realignment (SB823) and the impacts on bookings and community supervision since COVID-19 restrictions were lifted. After May 2024, the Yolo County Probation Department anticipates that a minimum of 1 to 2 youth may be required to be housed locally or in a neighboring county under a commitment to a Secure Youth Treatment Facility (SYTF). These youth previously would have been sent to the Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ). This projection is based on the Probation Department's historical DJJ population from 2015 to 2020, as well as SYTF commitments between 2021 and 2023. Accounting for the steady year over year decline and slight plateauing of the highs and lows of single daily population tallies, the Department projects those to remain static going forward, at least for the next calendar year.

Risk-Based Assessment for Detention Determinations Upon Booking

The Yolo County Probation Department adopted the Ohio Youth Assessment System Detention Tool (OYAS-DET) in 2016 to assess fitness for release in recommending to the Courts whether detention was necessary for the booking offense. Scoring factors include prior offense history, current charge, whether this is a 1st contact with the juvenile justice system, family members’ arrest history, difficulty controlling anger and negative attitude towards the juvenile justice system. Low- and many moderate-scoring youth are released within days or the same day of booking, contributing to an overall decline in both average daily population and average length of stay in the Yolo JDF. The OYAS is also used to determine risk level to reoffend.

Probation Diversion Programs

Prior to 2013, the Probation Department utilized three informal diversion options: 1) closing the case at intake/upon receipt; 2) placing the case on a 6-month hold; and 3) supervising the youth for 6 months with no court involvement pursuant to Welfare and Institutions Code Section 654. In the second and third option, if the youth remained free from law violations for 6 months, then the case was closed. In November 2013, the Probation Department began incorporating formal diversion programs into these informal diversion dispositions. Since then, the need to incorporate more youth diversion programs became apparent. The first youth diversion program implemented was the Juvenile Review Board, which is described below. In the fall of 2019, the Department pursued and was awarded a Youth Reinvestment Grant to develop the RESTORE (Redefining Engagement with Services and Treatment by Offering Restorative Experiences) program. The youth diversion programs developed through this grant have been implemented with a focus on addressing racial disparities, minimizing the number of youth entering the juvenile justice system and addressing the root causes of youths' behavior by increasing access to services for youth and their families. The Youth Reinvestment Grant ended in February 2023; however, the department has ensured the program's sustainability through alternative funding streams in order to continue this diversion program.

In 2023, the Probation Department informally and formally diverted 64% of all youth referred by citation or by arrest.

*Status refers to the Court-ordered disposition of a youth’s case. These cases have had petitions filed by the District Attorney and the youth has received an order from the Court. The status categories are described below.

- Welfare and Institutions Code Section 654, 654.2 and 725(a): These are 6-month periods supervised by the Probation Department. Upon successful completion of the Court’s and Probation Department’s directives, the case is dismissed.
- Welfare and Institutions Code Section 725(b) [ward]: This is a period that can extend until the youth is 21 years of age. Upon successful completion of the Court’s and Probation Department’s directives, the case is dismissed. If the youth has been adjudicated for an offense deemed serious or violent pursuant to the Welfare and Institutions Code Section 707(b), then the case is not dismissed. Instead, the supervision period is deemed successfully completed.
- Deferred Entry of Judgement (DEJ): Pursuant to Penal Code Section 1000, the youth enter a guilty plea to an offense, but is not adjudicated at the time they enter that guilty plea. The case is put over for period, typically one year. Upon successful completion of the Court’s and Probation Department’s directives, the case is dismissed.
- Out-of-Home Placement: This pertains to the youth who have been Court-ordered to receive treatment at Short-Term Residential Treatment Programs (STRTP), which provide treatment for substance use, mental illness, or other behavioral problems.

- Secure Youth Treatment Facility: This functions as a replacement for the Division of Juvenile Justice placement. These facilities house the highest risk youth who possess longer-term treatment needs and cannot initially be treated within the community. Counties are responsible for placing youth who would otherwise be sentenced to DJJ in a Secure Youth Treatment Facility which will address the youth's specific treatment needs, whether it is in their county of residence or in a nearby county.

Risk-Based Assessment for Disposition

The Ohio Youth Assessment System – Disposition report details the youth's highest risk factor(s). The assigned probation officer works with the youth and family according to the highest risk factor(s) as follows:

- Peers and Social Support Network: The probation officer and the youth/family will promote pro-social alternatives to negative peers, possibly through mentoring programs and/or outside resources. In addition, probation officers will encourage both the youth and family to utilize existing pro-social support networks more fully.
- Pro-Social Skills: The probation officer and the youth/family will create pro-social alternatives and/or activities within the community (replacing delinquent/criminal activity). The youth/family can suggest pro-social activities such as, sports/fitness, hobbies, parent or family programs, youth mentorship programs, community events and any suggested outside resources that promote pro-social living. Probation can assist in arranging these programs as well as providing funding if approved.
- Education: The probation officer/youth/family, may set goals regarding improved grades and attendance at school. Less frequent disciplinary actions in the school environment leads to improved behavior, promoting healthy relationships/bonds with school personnel. In the case plan there may be Individual Education Plan (IEP) appointments such as initial assessments and follow up assessments. Parents will be responsible for participating in all school related activities, when necessary. They will be responsible for reporting to the probation officer and/or school staff when they experience barriers to the youth's success.
- Employment: The youth and the probation officer can work together to obtain the appropriate employment for the youth, if the youth is 18+ years old. If the youth is not 18+, the probation officer should seek approval from parents/school (job permit). The employment should not interfere with regular school functioning. Additionally, the probation officer may provide resources for job training/career development and/or career programs to prepare them for future employment.
- Family and Living Arrangements: In this domain, there are a wide variety of family topics that may be addressed including family dynamics/family turmoil, absentee parent or parents, youth's resentment towards parents and parents' resentment towards youth. Additionally, family living arrangements should be proposed by the parents/primary care providers, family, and youth. Alternative living arrangements may differ from the primary household and subject to probation officer's/Court's approval. The family's living arrangement may be risks and needs that are challenging to address, therefore, seeking outside agency's assistance/resources may be necessary. Functional Family Therapy (FFT) is a primary method utilized for addressing this domain, which is defined in attachment A. Parenting classes may also be recommended when available.

- Substance Abuse, Mental Health, and Personality: Officers should make referrals to the appropriate community agencies to address this domain. Probation can provide support by encouraging the youth and family's participation as well as providing transportation when possible. In addition, Probation should act as an additional support by being present at Child Family Team (CFT) meetings to discuss with the minor the tools they are learning and issues they are addressing, which is defined in attachment A.
- Values, Beliefs and Attitudes: The probation officer will work with the youth and the family on the youth's delinquent, negative, and/or criminal behaviors or attitudes. Together, the youth, the family and the probation officer will encourage pro-social thinking to assist the youth in replacing the negative behavior with positive behavior. The youth should have some autonomy in developing their own pro-social thinking. Goals/plans should be clear and consistent with the overall case plan. Counseling and other mentor programs should also be utilized as a tool to work on this domain.

In 2023, the Yolo County Probation Department partnered with RDA Consulting to provide a reliability and validity study of the Ohio Youth Assessment System (OYAS). The study was conducted from September 2022-June 2023. The study used a mixed-methods approach to determine threats to the reliability and validity of the OYAS-Diversion, OYAS-Detention, and OYAS-Disposition tools, and efficacy in predicting the likelihood of Yolo County youth recidivism. The study also set out to better understand and reduce any assessment biases based on gender, race, and ethnicity.

Upon completion of the study, RDA provided four recommendations to the department related to quality improvement strategies and processes in order to minimize systematic scoring differences between officers and positively impact the predictive validity of the tools. The four categories include (1) Administration Fidelity; (2) Overrides; (3) Case Planning; and (4) Collaboration with stakeholders. Since June 2023 the probation department has been addressing these categories by implementing booster trainings, improvement to internal policies and procedures, and building on our collaborative partnerships.

The juvenile justice population in 2023, consisted of 83% male and 17% female (as identified by the youth), with a larger population falling within the transitional age youth age group. Of the total 102 youth, 68% had their first petition filed by the District Attorney’s Office between ages 15 and 17, while 21% had their first petition filed between the ages 13 and 14, and only 3% (3 youth) had their first petition filed at the age of 12. During 2023, assault was the most frequent offense at 27% and weapons charges followed at 23%. In 2023, the Juvenile Court ordered restitution in 6% and community service in 32% of the supervised juvenile population. Of these youth, none have successfully paid off their restitution and 22% have successfully completed their community service hours.

In reviewing socioeconomic and educational factors from 2023, 65% were eligible for enrollment in Medi-Cal, 19% had active Individualized Education Plans (IEP), 8% had 504 Plans and 12% were identified as English language learners. According to the Yolo County Office of Education, the number of school changes not due to matriculation or expulsion was calculated, resulting in 1,245 school changes among these identified 100 young people during their academic careers. The highest individual number of school changes was 41, with the low being no change of schools. Additionally, the number of days suspended totaled 20 and 1 student having been expelled. Regarding homelessness in the county’s school-aged population, there were 617 students identified in the 2022-23 school year pursuant to the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (McKinney-Vento Act – 42 United States Code § 11431-11435). The McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act is federal legislation that ensures the educational rights and protections of children and youth experiencing homelessness. The McKinney-Vento Act defines homeless children and youth as individuals who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence.

In examining Yolo County communities that face a significant public safety risk from juvenile crime, 44% of the justice-involved youth reside in Woodland, followed by 28% of justice-involved youth in West Sacramento. The cities of Woodland and West Sacramento continue to be prioritized in developing strategies to reduce juvenile crime.

In 2023, the number of Child Welfare Services (CWS) referrals and open cases were explored with regards to the youth under the Probation Department’s supervision on that date. The chart below illustrates the percentage of youth on probation who had CWS referrals, as well as the number of referrals.

Child Welfare History	2022	2023
Youth with No CWS Referrals	21.5%	22%
Youth with 1-5 CWS Referrals	46.5%	41%

Addressing Bias and Disproportionality

Given the racial and ethnic disproportionality among Yolo County's juvenile justice system population, as compared to the greater county and state populations (previously cited on page 8), the Probation Department continues to actively seek a better understanding of why this imbalance exists and what systemic changes might be made to mitigate the imbalance. To date, the department has examined key decision-making points as youth enter and move through the system. The Probation Department also requires staff to annually participate in implicit bias and cultural sensitivity training, as well as employs a diversion program which only excludes the most serious and violent offenses.

Existing Continuum of Care / Juvenile Justice Continuum

Yolo County has developed a continuum of care to address the issues of at-risk and justice-involved youth. This section describes those services including prevention and early intervention programs, community-based services and supervision, residential interventions, and secure care. The below-listed programs/services are those currently offered directly to juvenile justice-involved youth. A full description of all the programs/services, as well as the providing organization can be located in Attachment A.

Prevention/Early Intervention Programs

Early Interventions are a system of appropriate coordinated services that support individuals and families during "front end" involvement with the criminal justice system. Yolo County offers a variety of early intervention programs and services. The following programs were created with the intent to divert youth from the formal probation system by addressing treatment needs and by responding quickly to the reason for law enforcement contact.

Juvenile Probation Services

The Probation Department works closely with other Yolo County departments and community agencies to provide services responsive to youth needs as determined through an assessment; currently the Ohio Risk Assessment for Youth (OYAS). In addition to the above community-based services, the Probation Department employs several other programs/services, which are detailed below, as well as in attachment A.

Juvenile Case Management

The target population to be served remains unchanged: higher risk probation youth as determined by the Ohio Youth Assessment System (ORAS) risk/needs assessment tool. Research has shown focusing on the higher risk youth has the most impact on reducing recidivism¹⁰. Criminal justice research has shown that combining probation monitoring with effective treatment will yield the greatest recidivism reduction. Thus, by adhering to principles of risk-need-responsivity with youth, research shows counties can create plans and allocate appropriate funding to create quality programming across several areas, which results in better outcomes¹¹. The updated juvenile case management model uses the Integrated Core Practice Model (ICPM), which creates a timely coordinated approach to the trauma-informed continuum of care provided to youth. The core principles of ICPM consist of family voice and choice, team-based, natural support, collaboration, and integration, community-based, culturally respectful, individualized, strength-based, persistence and outcome-based. The updated case management model consists of Family Team Meetings facilitated by the probation officer, which embrace the ICPM principles.

Probation officers also employ evidence-based principles by assessing actuarial risk/need, implementing case planning driven by the results of the ORAS and youth/family input, utilizing Motivational Interviewing to enhance intrinsic motivation, and then targeting interventions in collaboration with our community-based juvenile justice providers or other community-based organizations as deemed appropriate. The provider communicates regularly with officers to work through case planning and the targeting of criminogenic risk/needs. Interventions to be provided consist of but are not limited to any of the following: Alternatives for Families-A Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (AF-CBT), Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT), Therapeutic Behavioral Services (TBS) or Wraparound Services. Individual therapy/counseling is provided as needed. The officers employ a strength-based and family approach in working with their youth, using a system of graduated incentives and sanctions to affirm and reward compliant behavior and respond to non-compliant behavior.

To help Probation understand the perception of their impact on youths and their families, we implemented pre-supervision and annual surveys. We found that 82% of youth had a positive view of law enforcement and 83% of youth believed they would be included in the decision-making process regarding their case prior to receiving supervision. With an 81% positive response rate, youth maintained a positive view of law enforcement; additionally, youth felt more included in the decision-making process providing an 86% positive response. Two areas of improvement are how youth feel their families were treated by “the system” and their belief that Probation is helping their families. In the pre-supervision survey, youth had a 78% positive response regarding how they felt their families were being treated by “the system”; however, on annual surveys the positive response fell to 69%. In pre-supervision surveys, youth felt positively that Probation could help their families only 67% of the time. When responding to the annual surveys, the positive response improved to 75%. The Probation Department is constantly training on and applying multiple techniques that reinforce our ability to serve youth and families in the community.

Training, Education, and Multi-Disciplinary Collaboration

Yolo County Probation Department places a strong emphasis on various types of trainings and continuing education for officers, as well as maintaining an up-to-date understanding of best practices. Probation continues to provide the most relevant training opportunities to officers regarding best practices in working with youth. Trainings provide probation officers the tools necessary to understand the specific challenges faced by youth. Officers receive training in Commercially Sexually Exploited Children (CSEC), trauma, continuum of care, Adverse Childhood Experiences, trauma-informed care/interaction, building resiliency, restorative practices, needs specific to transitional age youth, foster care, permanency, juvenile interstate compact agreements, LGTBQIA+, Prison Rape Elimination Act, Motivational Interviewing, case management model, Family Team Meetings, and assessments/needs evaluations for youth. The comprehensive training schedule for probation officers allows for appropriate services to be implemented at the outset of supervision, as well as for officers to be well-equipped to use trauma-informed interaction with the youth on their caseloads. Trauma-informed interaction involves officers not only understanding the effects of trauma on youth’s behavior, but also how to mitigate triggering the youth’s trauma, thereby avoiding the risk of re-traumatizing them.

The Probation Department also participates in several multi-disciplinary committees (MDTs) such as Wraparound MDT, Juvenile Detention Facility MDT, Interagency Placement Committee (IPC), and Multidiscipline Oversight Committee (MOC), which all meet weekly with the exception of MOC which meets bi-monthly to staff cases from an interdisciplinary approach. This approach assists uses interagency connectivity among county organizations by leveraging partnership, collaboration, expertise, and shared goals such as rehabilitation and treatment of youth, as well as community safety.

Cultural Responsivity Within the Juvenile Justice Continuum

The Probation Department ensures the inclusion of various points of views and experiences of the youth and their families. Cultural responsiveness requires that those in a position of power take stock of their role in society and the advantages that may come with it. It also encourages the learning and understanding of other groups to foster respect, trust, and inclusion of that understanding in every step of decision-making. This includes the recognition of demographic, sociopolitical, and other contextual characteristics¹²

For Probation Department staff, as well as community provider program staff, it consists of an intentional approach woven into every interaction embracing the various viewpoints of the clients served and incorporating them into the design of programs and services. It also consists of annual Cultural Awareness training, Implicit Bias training, LGTBQIA+ training, Prison Rape Elimination Act training, and other evidence-based trainings offered to increase officers' insight into cultural responsiveness and to foster the department philosophy that the family culture will be respected and incorporated into the case plans, as well as all interactions. Probation trainings aim to foster a culturally appropriate mindset throughout the Probation Department, as well as set forth the expectation that officers recognize and be reflective about their own beliefs, be aware and reflective about their own cultural frames of reference, be able to offer empathy, and obtain knowledge about other cultures, to work more productively with youth and families.

This section describes cultural responsiveness as it pertains to the community partners who provide services to justice-involved youth.

CommuniCare+OLE employs bilingual clinicians and psychiatrists who are available to provide services in Spanish. The team has a whatever-it-takes approach to engaging youth and their families and makes a concerted effort for meeting youth where they are in the community. The youth team understands the complexities and challenges that families involved in the Juvenile Justice system face and invests time in building trusting and therapeutic relationships that will support youth in healthy social emotional development. Engagement efforts include both youth and their caregivers in establishing shared goals, as well as working on strengthening relationships within their family. Appointments are offered on days and times that are most supportive to families, as well as location including in clinic, at the youth's school, in home and in the community. Additionally, services are individualized, and mental health providers partner with youth in developing appropriate incentives, around meeting goals pertaining to engagement, and other accomplishments identified during services. Furthermore, clinicians work collaboratively with assigned probation officers and regularly communicate updates pertaining to the youth's progress.

Empower Yolo

Empower Yolo staff are certified in peer counseling for sexual assault and domestic violence and have completed 72-hours of training. This training includes crisis intervention, peer counseling techniques, understanding sexual assault, domestic violence, and human trafficking through a trauma-informed, culturally responsive, and survivor-centered lens. All services are provided in a manner that appreciates, enhances, and utilizes the strengths of Empower Yolo clients and honors their cultural practices and traditions.

Victor Community Support Services

The Victor Cultural Competency Plan consists of work teams of varying positions, races, cultures, religion, sexual preference, and language. These teams meet regularly to review the cultural competency of the Agency defined as: “Our responsibility is to be culturally aware, to act on the basis of a critical analysis and understanding of our own conditioning, the conditioning of our clients and the sociopolitical system of which we are both a part.” The task of these work teams is to develop and make a recommendation to the Executive Leadership Team for the Cultural Competency Plan. The purpose of this plan is to: Find commonalities to advance our mission, provide effective services to our clients/families and stakeholders, define, and prescribe training needs of staff, assure diversity in employment practices, assure an appreciation, and encourage diversity in the delivery of services, and assure agency-wide consistency in personnel and clinical practices.

Woodland Police Activities League

The Woodland PAL program recognizes that not all students come from the same background and staff work with students to find ways to motivate the experiences they do have. Lessons are tied to the students’ social communities to make it more contextual and relevant. PAL leaders come from a variety of cultures allowing students to learn from, and connect with, instructors from similar communities.

Yolo Conflict Resolution Center

The Yolo Conflict Resolution Center is culturally responsive by making concerted efforts to understand the specific needs of all its’ clients. With this information YCRC can be sensitive and responsive to whatever cultural, capacity, or other needs that may present themselves. Additionally, all YCRC staff are bi-lingual in Spanish and can offer services equally in English and Spanish. In cases where other languages are needed, YCRC works very closely with a professional interpretation service to ensure quality language services.

Yolo Office of Education

The staff provides relevant, culturally sensitive curriculum with an emphasis on language development, academic vocabulary, and reading proficiency. The staff have been working with UC Davis School of Education, The Davis Culture Co-Op, SAYS (Sacramento Area Youth Speaks) from UC Davis, the American Reading Company, and Reading with Relevance to create culturally relevant, grade-level ELA and Math lessons for students all students in our alternative education programs.

Juvenile Justice Realignment Plan

Juvenile Realignment Subcommittee

Pursuant to Senate Bill 823/Senate Bill 92, a subcommittee of the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council shall develop a plan describing the facilities, programs, placements, services, supervision, and reentry strategies that are needed to provide appropriate rehabilitation and supervision services for the DJJ realigned population. In addition to the statutory requirements of the JJCC, Senate Bill 823/Senate Bill 92 broadened the scope of the Council by including the development of a plan to present to the Board of Supervisors.

Secure Youth Treatment Facility

It has been determined by the Juvenile Realignment Subcommittee that due to the current and historical low number of target population youth, as well as currently having no current SYTF commitments, Yolo County continues to struggle with providing a Secure Youth Treatment Facility. Should the Court order a youth to SYTF, Yolo County will seek a program that meets the individualized needs of the youth. Yolo County will contract with a nearby program (if possible), as retaining a youth close to their community of origin increases the ability to keep the youth engaged in local culture, community services, and family and natural support engagement. Yolo County will simultaneously engage youth in its Community Re-Entry Program beginning from the date of SYTF adjudication.

Use of Evidence-Based Practices

Where available, use of evidence-based programs is encouraged. The Campbell Crime and Justice Coordinating Group (<https://campbellcollaboration.org/better-evidence.html>) conducts and disseminates reviews of research on methods to reduce crime and delinquency. For example, these reviews have found that cognitive behavioral therapies can reduce recidivism and early parent training to help parents deal with children's behavioral problems can prevent later delinquency. In addition, Washington State Institute for Public Policy maintains a continuously updated inventory on prevention and interventions and notes them as evidence-based, research-based, and promising programs for child welfare, juvenile justice, and mental health systems. The institute also conducts cost-benefit analysis for the evaluated programs.

Other resources for identifying evidence-based programs include:

- Office of Juvenile Justice & Delinquency Prevention Program Guide: <http://www.ojjdp.gov/mpg/>
- Evidence-Based Practices Resource Center, Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA): <https://www.samhsa.gov/ebp-resource-center>
- What Works Clearinghouse, U.S. Department of Education: <http://ies.ed.gov/ncee/wwc/>

Fidelity to the Model

Fidelity is the extent to which an intervention, as implemented, is “faithful” to the pre-stated intervention model. Maintaining a high level of fidelity to the model of an evidence-based intervention is critical if one seeks to achieve outcomes demonstrated in the research conducted in the development of that model. Programs should self-assess and be prepared to report on their adherence to a model. In addition, the evaluation should incorporate fidelity assessments of programs in its design. There are situations in which modifications to a model program based on population or community needs are necessary. These changes should be documented, communicated with Probation, and evaluated for their impact on outcomes. Some models require extensive and expensive training, and this factor should be considered in their selection. Validated assessment and evaluation tools should be identified and considered as well.

In accordance with Yolo County performance review standards, all contractors/community-based providers are required to measure and submit data reports which include quantity data requirements, quality data requirements and outcome data requirements. Data evidencing the success of the program can be used to support future State and Federal grant opportunities, private funding requests and to compare outcomes against other funded but lesser performing programs.

Areas Needing Improvement

In addition to the Council's assessment of service gaps and needs, Yolo County previously convened a Juvenile Justice System Sequential Intercept Mapping (SIM) Workgroup which focused not only on resources, gaps, and opportunities for improvement, but it also aimed to identify potential opportunities for diversion or alternative treatment interventions. These gaps and opportunities were incorporated in this plan. Further, in 2023, Yolo County Child Welfare Services and the Probation Department collaboratively participated in the System Improvement Plan (SIP) update, which is also incorporated into this plan below. .

Service Array Gaps and Needs Analysis

System Improvement Plan and Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council

Several gaps and needs were highlighted in the 2020 System Improvement Plan (SIP) and by the JJCC related to the services available to juvenile justice-involved youth and their families. They shared several recommendations, establishing a more structured supervision model; potentially a Family Team model to have a team of professionals, family, and other supports for each youth. In December 2020, the revised juvenile supervision model was developed and by June 2021, all juvenile probation officers will have completed Family Team Meeting training and Case Management training. Further, in August 2021, the revised juvenile supervision model was fully implemented. Another shared recommendation was the need for vocational training. Beginning academic year 2020/2021, a revised career training education program was implemented between Probation and the Yolo County Office of Education. Further Career Training Education programs continue to be explored. In 2023, an annual SIP update was conducted outlining the progress regarding the goals and action steps listed in this plan in the Priorities and Goals section.

The SIP and the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council recommendations both included the development/expansion of programs and education for parents and youth in the system. The Probation Department plans to re-implement and expand The Parent Project® parenting class to include all county residents interested in participating. The Probation Department also intends to invite multiple partner agencies to join in the facilitation of the parenting program, as well as refer their clients.

Data-Sharing and Outcome Measures

The Council will share information related to data and outcome measures at the Council meetings and as needed between meetings. Community-based organizations that hold a contract for service with the County, are required to maintain performance measures. The Council will evaluate and monitor the effectiveness of the programs by annually reviewing the required performance measures.

Probation Department management will monitor internal programs twice annually by completing file audits, obtaining stakeholder feedback, reviewing youth and family pre/post-supervision surveys, and analyzing the data points tracked to determine the effectiveness of each program. Data points consist of juvenile detentions, arrests, violations, successful completion of probation, and successful completion of court-ordered community service and restitution. Data reviews will be conducted to identify areas of improvement, as well as areas needing improvement.

Local Action Plan for 2024

The following tier 1 and 2 tables show priorities identified to address the parts of the juvenile justice continuum and goals connected to the priorities. While goals were identified for all priorities, not all can be undertaken at once. The goals prioritized for fiscal years 2024-2025 are shown here and include annual action steps taken in implementing strategies to meet the goal. The members of the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council share responsibility for implementing the plan and the Council will review progress toward goals bi-annually. Priorities and goals will be revisited on an annual basis.

Community Programs through the District Attorney's Office

- Focusing on Children Under Stress (FOCUS): The District Attorney and Yolo County Office of Education offer a notification system designed to decrease the negative impacts on children who are exposed to violence and trauma. If a child is exposed to violence or trauma, the first responder alerts the child's school so the school can handle the child with additional specialized care and provide support as needed.
- Youth Leadership Academy: The District Attorney and the Multi-Cultural Community Council partnered to create this academy where high school students actively learn about the criminal justice system, discuss concepts of social and procedural justice, and engage in open dialogue between law enforcement and themselves concerning issues affecting the community.

Diversion Programs through Law Enforcement Agencies

Police departments fund and manage local diversion programs, which have been designed to work best within their jurisdiction. Referrals are accepted from schools and law enforcement. Police Departments then partner with local resources when needed to provide parenting, mental health, restorative justice, and family stabilization services. Participating juveniles agree to a diversion contract. Diversion programs through law enforcement agencies in Yolo County include:

West Sacramento Police Department

- Youth Diversion Counselor on Staff: The Juvenile Diversion Program offers first and second time offenders (under the age of 18) the opportunity to change unacceptable behavior by providing intervention for the youth who would normally be rejected by Yolo County Probation. The Youth Diversion Counselor (YDC) works directly with family members to improve community/youth relations. Diversion Program referrals come directly from WSPD officers (arrest and referrals), Administrators at Washington Unified School District (WUSD) and Outreach Specialist/Social Workers that work for WUSD. The Diversion Program is designed to keep juveniles out of the judicial system by giving them direction and resources that support the juvenile and their family. The YDC works directly with approximately 75 to 100 juveniles and families (citations, runaways, referrals from officers, parents and WUSD).
- Collings Teen Center: West Sacramento benefits from having a longstanding gathering spot for youth. The center offers afterschool drop in and programming that also represents a safe and supportive atmosphere and provides food and study support. The West Sacramento Police Department partners with the Teen Center and the Washington

Unified School District to provide support during the holiday season and provides free community events for youth and families throughout the year.

Woodland Police Department

- Woodland Police Activities League (WPAL): WPAL's goal is to reach out and enrich the lives of the youth of Woodland and surrounding communities to reduce juvenile crime and delinquency by uniting law enforcement officers and our youth. WPAL operates the local Jr Giants baseball league, a middle school 3 on 3 basketball tournament, and a summer program which takes referred children from elementary schools and exposes them to a variety of sports and cultural activities including baseball, basketball, football, soccer, swimming, tennis, art, and leadership skills. In addition, WPAL offers a variety of programs during the year, free of charge, including introduction to mixed martial arts, girls boxing, and art programs. Future goals include the incorporation of tutoring and counseling, vocational training, and additional classes where interest is identified.
- Restorative Justice Conferences: Restorative Justice Conferences are provided by an independent community-based organization, Yolo Conflict Resolution Center, in collaboration with the police department. See description above.
- Youth Gang Reduction Intervention and Prevention (YGRIP): This is a multi-agency group comprised of public and private agencies. This Initiative is responsible for making recommendations for the development and implementation of systemic, evidence-based strategies targeted towards at-risk youth and their families. Emphasis is placed on involving conventional professional partners coupled with the engagement of community and faith-based organizations that share a common interest in reducing youth gang membership and curtailing youth violence. Additionally, the collaborative can capitalize on pooled resources to maximize a continuum of strategies, develop effective referral systems, and ensure services are efficiently provided to at-risk youth and their families.

Yolo County Sheriff's Office

- Sheriff's Office Cadet Program: This program is established to provide the youth of our community the opportunity to participate in and learn the needs of our community as it relates to law enforcement. Sheriff cadets learn how to become better citizens in their community, through service, while developing a positive relationship between law enforcement and the youth. The Cadet Program is based on five areas of emphasis: career opportunities, life skills, citizenship, character education, and leadership experience.

Yolo County Probation Department

- YMCA: The Probation Department funds a portion of youth programming in order to provide preventative services to youth in the community with the aim to prevent juvenile justice involvement.
- Juvenile Review Board: The Probation Department manages this diversion program in collaboration with a board of community members. This affords the youth an opportunity to receive referrals and engage in a restorative process determined by the community member board.
- Restorative Justice Conferences: This diversion program is provided by an independent community-based organization, Yolo Conflict Resolution Center, in collaboration with the Probation Department. It aims to divert youth away from the juvenile justice system and focuses on improving the overall wellbeing and outcomes for youth. The program uses restorative justice methods that help youth understand the impact of their actions and take responsibility for repairing the harm they have caused. It also seeks to identify and address underlying health and social issues while building resilience.

Unified School Districts & Yolo County Office of Education Programs

The school districts, as well as the County Office of Education have diversion programs to address behavioral issues occurring in the academic setting. These programs aim to provide youth and families with any needed referrals, as well as to work with the youth to course correct prior to referring the youth to the Probation Department for further evaluation.

Additionally, all school districts, to include the Yolo County Office of Education, provide the K-12 School Partnerships Program, which is a collaboration between Yolo County HHSA, Yolo County Office of Education, the District, and community-based organizations to embed clinical staff members at school sites to provide a wide array of services including universal screening, assessment, referral, and treatment for children and youth aged 6–18. Family and community partner involvement is critical to this framework. Children, youth, and their families are linked to the most suitable service, regardless of funding source or service setting. Services are culturally responsive and provide community-, district-, and school-specific services to meet the unique needs of children, youth, and their families. The vision of these district-specific partnerships is to increase access to mental health services in locations that are easily accessible to students and families by utilizing an integrated systems model and multitiered systems of support. The goal of this integrated approach is to blend resources, training, systems, data, and practices to improve outcomes for all children and youth. There is an emphasis on prevention, early identification, and intervention of the social, emotional, and behavior needs of students. The K-12 School Partnerships Program helps identify children and youth who need mental health services and provides direct services and supports to students and the school system that include:

- prompt identification and intervention for potential issues;
- timely access to and coordination of services to address existing issues at appropriate service intensity; and
- utilization of evidence-based practices and data-driven decision making to ensure positive outcomes for children, youth, and their families.

JUVENILE PROBATION SERVICES

Assembly Bill 12 – Extended Foster Care Program

Assembly Bill 12 created California’s Extended Foster Care Program which allows eligible youth in the child welfare and probation systems to remain in foster care until age 21. Youth may leave extended foster care and later choose to re-enter the program up to age 21.

Family Team Meeting & Case Management

The updated juvenile case management model uses the Integrated Core Practice Model (ICPM), which creates a timely coordinated approach to the trauma-informed continuum of care provided to youth. The core principles of ICPM consist of family voice and choice; being team-based; incorporating natural supports; collaboration and integration; community-based; culturally respectful; individualized; strength-based; persistence; and outcome-based. Family Team Meetings are driven by the case plan, and are a structured approach to involving youth, families, and caregivers in case planning through a facilitated meeting of family and their identified supports, which is facilitated by the assigned probation officer. Evidence-based practice and research show building positive relationships with youth, relatives, and family members, as well as providing connections to community services and focusing on continuity of care for the family, increase the likelihood of positive outcomes for the youth, as well as for the family. Probation will support, guide, and strengthen parents/families by providing the tools and resources that will outlast treatment services and legal involvement for parents/families to facilitate the ongoing positive development of their child(ren).

Juvenile Supervision Model

Probation officers will employ evidence-based principles by assessing actuarial risk/need, utilizing Motivational Interviewing to enhance intrinsic motivation, and then targeting interventions in collaboration with community-based juvenile justice providers or other CBO as deemed appropriate. The provider meets regularly with officers to work through case planning and the targeting of criminogenic risk/needs. Interventions to be provided consist of but are not limited to Functional Family Therapy, Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy and/or Wraparound Services. Individual therapy is provided as needed. Officers employ a strength-based and family approach in working with the youth, using a system of graduated incentives and sanctions to affirm and reward compliant behavior and respond to non-compliant behavior.

Motivational Interviewing

Motivational Interviewing is a technique often used to treat maladaptive behavior patterns in adolescents who are not yet intrinsically motivated to change their behavior. This is a client-centered approach that is used by the Probation Department to reinforce adolescents' motivation to change and help them commit to that change.

Multi-Disciplinary Team Meetings

Multi-Disciplinary Team meetings are held for an array of specialized cases/youth. All participants are given the opportunity to discuss what the youth is working on, the plan moving forward, court updates, medication compliance, school updates, treatment compliance, etc. The team members also share information and ask questions of the other agencies regarding specific services being provided to the youth. Current and future concerns are discussed, as well as supportive strategies for the youth and partner agencies. Below are the current Multi-Disciplinary Team meetings and their participants.

- Juvenile Detention Facility: The in-custody team consists of staff from the JDF, Probation, HHS, Yolo County Office of Education, Communicare+OLE, Wellpath and the Public Defender's Office and meets to discuss treatment and re-entry planning for youth detained in the JDF.

The Parent Project®

This is a probation-run, 10-week parenting program that is designed for parents raising strong-willed, difficult, or out-of-control adolescent children, ages 10 and up.

Risk/Needs Assessment and Case Plan

At the outset of all cases, an assessment is conducted to determine the youth's risk level and needs. Based on the identified needs, a case plan is developed by the probation officer in collaboration with the youth and family. Assessment and case planning are ongoing processes and occur every six months unless the need arises sooner. The case plan provides an outline of probation services being provided to the family. Case plans and treatment plans will be aligned with goals, interventions, target behaviors and youth/family needs.

Specialized Caseloads

The Probation Department individualizes juvenile probation supervision by the needs of the youth. The assigned probation officer attends specialized training to best supervise youth with specific needs. Additionally, cultural sensitivity is included when assigning officers to youth, for example, by assigning Spanish-speaking officers to Spanish-speaking families and youth. Other specialized caseloads consist of youth adjudicated of sex-related offenses, youth engaged in wraparound services, youth placed out of home, youth enrolled in extended foster care, youth participating in Yolo County Career Paths and youth experiencing CSEC trauma.

Yolo County Career Program

This program is managed through a collaboration between the Probation Department and Yolo County Office of Education. This is a cooperative agency effort designed to provide an alternative to out-of-home placement for youth in trouble. Each five-month program session provides an intensive work/education environment with the goal of redirecting youth towards a healthy, law-abiding lifestyle to become contributing members of society.

RESIDENTIAL INTERVENTION

Assembly Bill 12 – Extended Foster Care Program

Description listed above under Juvenile Probation Services

Foster Care Placement/Resource Family Approval (RFA)

RFA is a family-friendly and child-centered caregiver approval process that combines elements of the current foster parent licensing, relative approval and approvals for adoption and guardianship processes and replaces those processes. RFA is streamlined and eliminates the duplication of existing processes. It unifies approval standards for all caregivers, regardless of the child's case plan, and includes a comprehensive psychosocial assessment, home environment checks and training for all families, including relatives. It also prepares families to better meet the needs of vulnerable children in the foster care system, as well as allows seamless transition to permanency.

Independent Living Programs

HHS offers an Independent Living Program to assist foster care youth who will be leaving the foster care system due to their age. Youth aged 18-21 can receive housing assistance, mental health and support services, employment assistance and healthy relationship skills. These programs are not currently available to juvenile justice system-involved youth exiting secure care but are available to juvenile justice youth who have been court-ordered to out-of-home placement.

Short Term Residential Therapeutic Program (STRTP)

Youth are placed in Short Term Residential Therapeutic Programs (STRTP) following approval by the Interagency Placement Committee. Another option is Resource Family Approved Home.

SECURE CARE

The Juvenile Detention Facility provides safe and secure housing for wards and at-risk youth under the care of Yolo County as well as a wide array of programs and services further described below. The JDF employs evidence-based interventions to include cognitive behavioral groups.

Such incentives and sanctions will be individualized and will not rely on a one-size-fits-all model.

IN-CUSTODY EDUCATIONAL/VOCATIONAL

The Yolo County Office of Education (YCOE) operates the Dan Jacobs School in the JDF, offering education to youth in the facility year-round. The Education Program is compliant with Article 6, Section 1370 of the Board of Corrections Title 15, Juvenile Facilities Regulations. Youth are interviewed and registered by school staff the first possible school day after the youth arrives at the JDF and assessed with the administration of the Home Language Survey. Any special needs are identified and school progress and discipline issues within the facility are documented.

Renaissance STAR Math and Reading software programs are used to assess each youth's skill level in these two subject areas within three days of enrollment. Instructional time of 250 minutes per day is devoted to the core curriculum of mathematics, English/language arts, history/social science, science, and physical education, as well as electives, technology, and health. Students can also take computer class for career and life skills development as an elective each day. Additionally, students receive instruction in life skills with a focus on consumer skills and employment development during mathematics and technology classes. Fine arts curriculum opportunities are integrated into the history/social studies, English/language arts and technology and career exploration classes.

YCOE provides a Resource Specialist Program (RSP) teacher whose main responsibility is to work with classroom teachers to meet the educational needs of the special needs student population. Copies of the youth's Individual Education Program, where applicable, are requested from the student's home school districts. The RSP teacher also assesses the progress that special education students are making towards their learning goals. English language learners are placed in English Language Development classes so that their skills in English can be assessed. The focus of these classes is to assist students in their proficiency in reading, writing, listening, and speaking English.

Educational opportunities are offered to all youth on Program Separation who are not integrated into the general population program due to acute behavioral issues.

Education Transition Planning/Support

To support youth in their educational transition and to promote academic success, JDF and YCOE staff provide information regarding post-secondary and/or vocational education and financial aid, as well as linkage to appropriate post-secondary and/or vocational program staff.

General Educational Development Test (GED)

The opportunity to receive a GED certificate while in placement is offered to youth who are out of the regular educational spectrum, such as age, and who are not currently enrolled in a school outside of the facility. This program is voluntary. A Juvenile Literacy Coordinator from Woodland Adult Education evaluates the youth's progress while they are studying for the GED and then facilitates the test to receive a GED certificate. The JDF provides a monetary reward of $100 and a certificate for those who achieve their GED. Snacks for a celebration in the youth's pod of residence with peers are also provided.

Tutors for Youth

Youth are paired with tutors based on their need for academic support in math, English, Spanish, history, chemistry, and biology. This service is provided by community volunteers.

OTHER IN-CUSTODY PROGRAMS

There are several church organizations who facilitate faith-based services on a rotating basis for youth to voluntarily attend. A translator is provided for youth who may not have a full understanding of the English language. Each organization has a different approach to sharing their beliefs. Services may include music, videos, singing and different activities that create an environment for the youth to fully participate, not just with the volunteers, but with each other in a safe and healthy environment. Current providers of spiritual services include Holy Rosary, Calvary Chapel, and God Will Provide-Sacramento. Other providers and denominations are arranged upon youth request.

IN-CUSTODY ENRICHMENT PROGRAMS

Youth frequently participate in arts and crafts, as well as contests and tournaments that encourage teamwork and promote self-esteem as youth receive validation and earn prizes for their participation. Guest speakers regularly visit the facility and provide educational presentations on topics such as cultural awareness, prevention of domestic violence and other topics selected to motivate youth to live a healthier lifestyle.

Youth have access to a variety of reading materials through the on-site library as well as opportunities to play board games, card games, draw, color and write letters to loved ones. Youth have access to game rooms which are equipped with Xbox-One, Nintendo switch, giant connect 4, air hockey, foosball, Velcro darts and an electric piano. Youth are provided with multiple opportunities for outdoor recreation activities that include basketball, soccer, obstacle courses, relay races and other team-oriented activities designed to promote camaraderie, teamwork, cooperation, and pro-social interactions.

Art Groups

Youth will learn about color theory, brush stroke and paint application. Youth are taught different styles and movements of canvas painting. Commit-to-Fit

Commit-to-Fit is a physically intensive program facilitated by qualified volunteers and/or JDF staff that allows youth to work on structured physical activities that target all muscle areas as well as full body stretches. healing, racial equity and love in practices and advocacy. MILPA conducts groups with a motivational video, a discussion of the topic, and an art project that ties it together. The program curriculum provides a “hands on approach” in that MILPA Instructors show the youth leaders what to do rather than telling the youth what to do.

Pet Therapy

This therapy animal program’s mission is to improve human health and well-being through the human-animal bond. The program is utilized to help youth in custody learn how to increase self-esteem, care for themselves, reduce anxiety, grief, and isolation, and improve social skills, trust, and empathy. Youth interact with a variety of species which include dogs, bunnies, pigs, horse, lamas, birds, and reptiles. This program is provided by Pet Partners.

Yolo Arts Program

The Yolo Arts Program is an expressive art program that provides youth with a creative and therapeutic channel to a non-threatening yet direct form of expression of emotions using art. This program incorporates learning how to draw and paint utilizing various media, poetry, and the creation of murals to enable the expression of deeply seated emotions. Additionally, the group provides youths with the opportunity to view problems from a new perspective, externalize difficult or painful experiences that are often hard to express through verbal expression. The goal of this program is to serve as a skill-building activity that serves as a coping technique, encourages creativity, promotes self-expression, and serves as a socialization group that stimulates positive interactions with peers, promotes universality and may provide catharsis for participants. This program is provided by the Yolo County Arts Council.
