Advisory Bodies Now Online

(Woodland, CA) – A listing of Yolo County advisory boards, commissions, councils and committees is now available online at www.yolocounty.org (go to: Community > Advisory Bodies). Also available online are applications for members of the public to serve on Yolo County advisory bodies.

“Members of our advisory bodies provide an important service to our county,” said Yolo County Board of Supervisors Chair Mike McGowan. “They advise us on a wide variety of complex and significant policy issues and programs of concern to the Board of Supervisors.”

Serving on an advisory body can be a rewarding experience and is an excellent way to participate in county government and make a personal contribution to the community. In order to have a government that is truly reflective of our nation’s democratic ideals, Yolo County relies on the active participation of many dedicated community members.

“The Board of Supervisors recognizes the level of commitment and professionalism required to serve on one of our advisory bodies,” said McGowan. “These dedicated community members assist the Board immeasurably in making Yolo County government both effective and responsive to its citizens.”

Advisory boards, commissions, councils and committees exist for the primary purpose of gathering information and presenting options and recommendations for consideration to the Yolo County Board of Supervisors. Many of these advisory bodies are created under the authority of county ordinances or by resolution of the Board of Supervisors.

“Yolo County is fortunate to have many community-minded citizens who have special experience and interests and who generously volunteer their time and expertise to serve on our advisory bodies,” said McGowan.
